Should Africa emulate Asian manufacturing African

Although manufacturers in Africa cannot mindlessly emulate what the Chinese are doing, we need to remember that China is a country. Africa isn't. China is the largest collection of sovereign states on any continent and home to a diverse variety of cultures. This must be respected and incorporated into any industrialisation strategy.

What Africa will look like in 100 years The Daily Telegraph

By Ashley Kirk, Friday 11 March 2016. Africa's population is booming. By 2100, it will be home to 4.4 billion people - four times its current population. Such an increase - far larger than the global population increase of 53 per cent by 2100 - will pose significant challenges. Poverty, conflict, disease and access to education are all issues African governments will continue to face, having
