Windows Security Identifiers SIDs Andrea Fortuna

SID is one of the core data structures in the NT security infrastructure. A Security Identifier (commonly abbreviated SID) is a unique, immutable identifier of a user, user group, or other security principal.. A security principal has a single SID for life (in a given domain), and all properties of the principal, including its name, are associated with the SID.

Question on Service SID

The article says that an expression I know to be an instance name is a SID, but that makes little sense. I know the install on w2k8 creates local groups for the various services (like the SQL Helper), and groups, being security principals (to which permissions can be applied) have SID's. These groups may be what the article is talking about.

SID social technet microsoft com

When you see a raw SID value displayed in an Access Control List in Windows (be it a folder, mailbox, whatever) that is an indication that the SID-to-Account Name lookup has failed.
